Fvck elections.

Look at the quality of candidates we keep getting: low-IQ, scum-sucking career parasites who couldn't run a lemonade stand without embezzling the sugar. We've proven beyond any reasonable doubt that the current system just selects for the worst possible human beings.

So scrap the whole circus.

Conscript the senators straight from the public, random lottery, no opt-outs.

Drag them out of their normal lives, stick them in office, give them a real salary and lock them into a mandatory five-year sentence.

Do a decent job?

You get a fat bonus and go back to your regular life with a clean record.

Break the laws, sell out or treat the public like marks?

Jail time.

Or, if the betrayal is bad enough, the full capital consequence.

Make it crystal clear from day one why they're there:

This is public service, not a career path, not a brand-building exercise, not a grift.

Serve well and return to civilian life.

Fvck it up and face the consequences.

No more professional politicians.

Just regular people under the gun, knowing exactly what happens if they forget who they work for.
