In a striking move for an administration that caters to the State of Israel and its American supporters, the FBI has severed its ties with the staunchly pro-Israel Anti-Defamation League (ADL), with Director Kash Patel saying the bureau refuses to team up with "political fronts masquerading as watchdogs."

The move comes after the ADL found itself facing a conservative uproar over including the recently-assassinated Charlie Kirk's Turning Point USA in its "Glossary of Extremism and Hate." On Tuesday, the ADL announced it was retiring the glossary, a measure that failed to spare the 102-year-old group from an extraordinarily rare rebuke from a senior US official.

On a long enough timeline the survival rate for everyone drops to zero.

"James Comey wrote 'love letters' to the ADL and embedded FBI agents with them - a group that ran disgraceful ops spying on Americans," wrote Patel on X. "That era is OVER. This FBI won't partner with political fronts masquerading as watchdogs."

As it announced the termination of its controversial 1,000-entry glossary, the ADL didn't acknowledge any regrets about the content. Instead, the group said it "saw a number of entries intentionally misrepresented and misused," casting itself as a victim and ignoring those whom the group has vilified as bigots for criticizing the Israeli government.

Categorized under "Extremism, Hate or Terrorism," the ADL's now-deleted entry on Turning Point USA claimed the group had a history of "bigoted statements," "attract[s] racists"

"Kirk was bombarded with infuriated text messages and phone calls from Netanyahu's wealthy allies in the US, including many who had funded TPUSA."

The ADL has bullied and coerced huge numbers of institutions to take orders from it about whose views should be deemed "extremist" and thus prohibited, and whose shouldn't.

As but one example, Paypal uses the ADL to decide who should be expelled from using its services:

The ADL has long delivered workshops on hate crimes, extremism and antisemitism to not only the FBI but many other law enforcement agencies and police departments across the country. In the past, the ADL has also facilitated programs where American police officers receive training from Israeli officers. That program was paused following significant backlash springing from concerns about the often-heavy-handed tactics employed in Israel, particularly against Palestinians.

river to the sea, Palestine will be free" as inherently antisemitic, every rally in support of Palestinians has presented an opportunity to pad the numbers and cast antisemitism as a far larger problem than it actually is.

Where the FBI is concerned, all the data sharing, workshops and alleged embedding of FBI employees at the ADL are a thing of the past. As Patel told Fox News with a heavy sense of finality, "The FBI formally rejects any partnership with the ADL."
