

1 hour ago (Edited)

"Nothing "green" about moderns society, all a complete crock of B.S."

You forget the most important point.. Its also 'profitable'.

Everything you see all around you everywhere you go has been specifically engineered to bring the most profit and control to those who run society right now. Its why en****ification is a thing, along with planned obsolescence, factory-to-landfill trash that barely functions once, products-as-services, rentier idiocy, marketization of every flat space your eyes fall, etc.

The things is, you can bypass most of it if you do some research. Buy things that are more expensive, but high quality. Better yet, make things yourself and make them to last. Don't watch the teevee or read ***** media (any of it) or plug your brain into pop culture. SAVE your money instead of spending it on *****. Spend your time wisely and don't get caught up in the Emergency Hair On Fire fake crisis of the day. It really is a choice you can make- or not- but you have to be the one to do it. If you are relying on 'someone else' to fix things, you'll be waiting the rest of your life. They won't, and they won't because, like every other horrible, idiotic thing in society, like broken systems themselves, they exist ON PURPOSE.