

CORONAVIRUS

Billionaires Segregate Themselves on Luxury Private Islands as Ordinary People Told They Can't Travel

Neo-feudalism: The elite is hiding out from the devastation their policies have caused.

Published 1 week ago on 23 July, 2021

Paul Joseph Watson

EMMANUEL DUNAND via Getty Images/Composite

34
Comments

News that billionaire Google co-founder Larry Page has been hiding out on and buying isolated private islands in Fiji to avoid tourists who aren't allowed in once again underscores how the elite is using the fallout from the pandemic to segregate themselves from the general public.

Page has been living off grid for over a year and forced a state-owned news website to remove an article about his activities that was also de-listed by Google in an apparent effort to conceal his location.

"He has spent months in Fiji during the coronavirus pandemic – mostly on the island of Tavarua – and it has been rumored the billionaire has bought at least one island in the country's Mamanuca archipelago," reports the Daily Mail.

HOME LATEST NEWS NEWS VIDEOS

Billionaires Segregate Themselves on Luxury Private Islands as Ordinary People Told Th

Page, who has a net worth of $117 billion, making him the sixth-wealthiest person in the world, was able to take advantage of Fiji's 'Blue Lane' program, which "lets the super wealthy visit the archipelago on their superyachts and private jets, even when other travelers were banned."

So while Page gets to enjoy a sumptuous view of the South Pacific while being attended to on his luxury private island by 30 staff waiting on him, ordinary people who have lost their jobs, businesses and homes due to the lockdown aren't even allowed to travel there.

Page's story is just a microcosm of how wealthy elitists have rapaciously exploited the lockdowns that they have vehemently supported and facilitated to further expand the economic inequality gap and segregate themselves from the peasants.

While Page has his staff prepare him cocktails and the finest cuisine after a day of surfboarding in paradise, children in his home country are either permanently traumatized and afraid to go outside or literally committing suicide out of loneliness caused by lockdown.

Meanwhile, the World Economic Forum – architects of 'the Great Reset' that has been rapidly advanced thanks to lockdown policies – tells people that they'll "own nothing and be happy."

Billionaires Segregate Themselves on Luxury Private Islands as Ordinary People Told Th

It tells them to look forward to their rental servitude under a system of neo-feudalism that will make home ownership completely unaffordable.

Meanwhile, Davos billionaires like Bill Gates are buying up huge swathes of property, with Gates recently becoming the largest owner of farmland in America.

In terms of individual land owners, Gates is still far behind media mogul John C. Malone, who is in top spot with 2.2 million acres of ranches and forests and CNN founder Ted Turner, who owns 2 million acres of ranch land.

Amazon's Jeff Bezos is also "investing in land on a large scale," according to Forbes.

While billionaire philanthropists and technocrats are acquiring land at an accelerating speed, they appear to be telling the general public that in the future private property will virtually cease to exist.

The WEF also celebrates the notion that "lockdowns are quietly improving cities," greasing the skids for climate lockdowns and regulated air travel even as the likes of

Billionaires Segregate Themselves on Luxury Private Islands as Ordinary People Told Th

While our quality of life is eroded, while we have to take vaccines and jump through 100 flaming hoops to be allowed to travel internationally, they're all completely exempt – exempt from the same rules they onerously impose on us.

Tourists are flushed out and banned from entering countries so Page and his rich friends can enjoy their days of pampered, opulent leisure in total seclusion.

Indeed, many elitists have expressed delight at how global lockdowns have left roads, airports and luxury resorts in Caribbean countries virtually empty, allowing them to avoid any interaction whatsoever with the unwashed masses.

This then has the knock-on impact of forcing low income workers to flood to western countries in search of work, exacerbating tensions caused by mass uncontrolled immigration.

Martin Daubney
@MartinDaubney

This is the tweet the @wef deleted, saying "lockdowns are quietly improving cities"

Lockdowns have destroyed cities, lives & economies. Yet climate change zealots see them as tools of control

These unelected cranks must NEVER be allowed near policy

8:43 AM · Feb 27, 2021

 1.4K  99  Copy link to Tweet

Billionaires Segregate Themselves on Luxury Private Islands as Ordinary People Told Th

personal wealth grow by $86 billion as Amazon shares soared.

According to an Oxfam report, billionaires exploited the the impact of lockdown to create a “rigged economy,” causing expanding wealth inequality during the “worst economic downturn in a century.”

A record number of billionaires were also created in the UK during the pandemic even as millions of ordinary people lost their jobs and saw their businesses go under.

Meanwhile, lockdowns caused 150 million people globally to be pushed into extreme poverty.

Some Fella
 @BusterPell

'Wealth increase of 10 men during pandemic could buy vaccines for all'

Never mind hungry people. Never mind those without shoes. Never mind.

It will trickle down....

'Wealth increase of 10 men during pandemic could buy vaccines for all'
 Billionaires' wealth has soared while the pandemic has plunged millions into poverty, Oxfam says.
bbc.co.uk

12:37 AM · Jun 23, 2021

1 ⚡ See the latest COVID-19 information on Twitter

But for those lucky enough to hold onto their jobs, they're kept at arms length by 'stay at home' orders, remote working and Zoom calls, even as globalists continue to enjoy maskless BBQ parties at the G7 and socially un-distanced black tie dinners at Davos.

They still get to meet each other in person (while avoiding the worker drones), but you don't.

None of this is anything new.

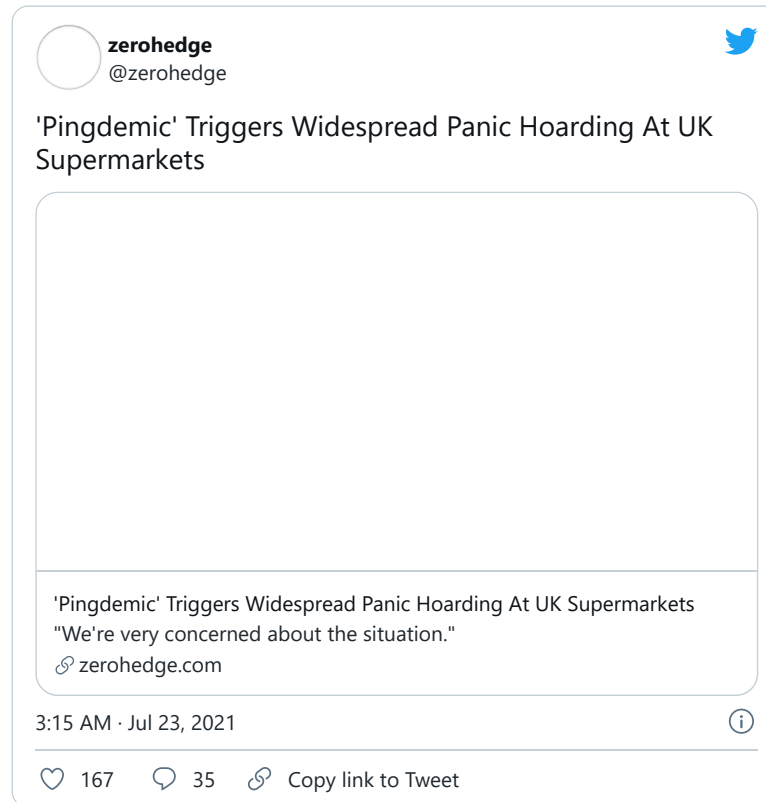

Billionaires Segregate Themselves on Luxury Private Islands as Ordinary People Told Th

The major difference now is that the elite have built a giant technocracy which enables them to maintain total surveillance of the populations under their control, while they get to enjoy total exclusivity and privacy.

As Larry Page's successful effort to get the article about his whereabouts removed from the news media proves, they get to conceal everything about their activities while demanding to know everything about yours.

They get to avoid attention and they get to avoid people knowing their location.

Meanwhile, your government health app knows your every locations and 'pings' you back under quarantine at the drop of a hat.

The advancement of robotics and artificial intelligence will also ensure that even much of the elite's servant class will become obsolete in the near future.

This agenda will all be facilitated through puppet governments and private corporations, allowing Page, Gates, Zuckerberg and other billionaires to fade into the background and hide their role in the managed decline of civilization.

While they continue to inflict all of this upon humanity, we continue to bicker over identity politics, racism and all manner of relative trivialities that keep us divided and asleep.

And if you're naive enough to think that this is all coming to an end as the coronavirus pandemic winds down, rest assured that there are many more 'variants' to be discovered and innumerable more reasons to put you back under lockdown.

Billionaires Segregate Themselves on Luxury Private Islands as Ordinary People Told Th

as the rest of the world goes to hell in a hand basket thanks to the economic warfare they declared on us.

SUBSCRIBE on YouTube:

Anything Goes

YouTube

105K

Follow on Twitter:

Follow @PrisonPlanet

Brand new merch now available! Get it at <https://www.pjwshop.com/>

ALERT!

In the age of mass Silicon Valley censorship It is crucial that we stay in touch.

I need you to sign up for my free newsletter here.

Support my sponsor – Turbo Force – a supercharged boost of clean energy without the comedown.

Get early access, exclusive content and behinds the scenes stuff by following me on Locals.

RELATED TOPICS: #FEATURED

HOME

LATEST NEWS

NEWS ~

VIDEOS